I am a student currently undergoing an internship at from to During this period, I will be supervised by (academic supervisor's name)
and (site supervisor's name).

CONFIDENTIALITY AND LIMITATIONS OF CONFIDENTIALITY

All discussions in the sessions are confidential. To guarantee the confidentiality, group members are also responsible for maintaining this confidentiality. However, there are certain limitations to confidentiality that require me (the student) to report to the relevant authorities if:

- a) The information shared poses a risk to the client, such as self-harm, harm to others, or any dangerous behavior indicating a lack of self-control;
- b) The client is involved in sexual or physical abuse of children, adults, the elderly, individuals with disabilities, or their partner;
- c) In legal cases, information may be subpoenaed by the court.
- d) For supervision or learning purposes, as a student, I may share session discussions with my professor without disclosing the client's identity.

SESSION DURATION

Each group session will last between 60 to 90 minutes. However, the duration may be shorter or longer depending on group discussions.

VIDEO/AUDIO RECORDING

I will record counseling sessions for learning and teaching purposes. If at any time you feel uncomfortable, the recording can be stopped. These recordings will be shared with my academic supervisor and site supervisor. The recordings will not interfere with the training process, and they will only continue if both you and I are comfortable. All recordings and transcripts will be destroyed at the end of this course.

HOW GROUP COUNSELING IS CONDUCTED

- a) The counsellor trainee and group members will collaborate to establish the group's goals, agreed upon by all members.
- b) The counsellor trainee will not make decisions for group members but will act as a facilitator to encourage decision-making. The responsibility for any decisions made lies with the client and group members.
- c) Each group member is responsible for discussing issues or challenges they feel comfortable sharing within the group and working together to find the best solutions.
- d) Group members are responsible for their commitment, accountability, and active participation throughout the group sessions.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF CLIENTS AND THE COUNSELOR-IN-TRAINING (STUDENT)

- a) During the sessions, the Counselor Trainee acts as a facilitator to help group members address their issues while respecting their dignity, values, and abilities.
- b) Each selected group member shares similar goals and needs to work toward achieving the best possible group outcome.

- c) Group members have the right to give permission to the Counselor Trainee to record sessions for supervision or specific research purposes.
- d) Group members have the right to review or listen to any recorded sessions.

I have read and understood all the information in this contract and agree not to dispute any actions taken by the Counselor Trainee if I violate this agreement.
